

MERCHANTS BEGIN TO FEEL EFFECTS OF COAST STRIKE

Labor Trouble in San Francisco Is Holding Up Tons of Honolulu Goods

RETAIL DEALERS STAND TO LOSE VERY HEAVILY

Steamship Service With Los Angeles Is Proposed As Solution of Difficulty

The arrival of the steamer Manoa with a short cargo and the reports from San Francisco of a determination on the part of the merchants to fight to a finish against the longshoremen's union have aroused a good deal of consideration among local merchants regarding their source of supplies. There are firms along Fort street which have had goods invoiced to them by three successive steamers and have failed to receive the goods, and it is calculated that if the San Francisco contest continues long there will be some serious shortages here.

"There are carloads and carloads of goods piled up on the wharves in Oakland and San Francisco for shipment to Hawaii," said President George W. Smith of the chamber of commerce yesterday. "and we do not know when they will come here. I do not know of anything that we can do to relieve the situation."

"There are some supplies which some firms are very anxious to get, but at present, as far as I know, there are no serious shortages. What might happen in the case of a protracted strike trying up shipments as they are tied up now, cannot say, further than that in some lines it would be a source of much difficulty."

The Manoa's cargo was a disappointment to a dozen retail firms here. All the way up and down Fort street there are firms which were expecting supplies which they did not get. Some of them, as stated, got invoices three months ago for goods which did not come even yesterday. The strike doesn't interfere at all with the mails, but the cargo for which mainland firms sent bills several weeks ago lies on the Oakland and San Francisco wharves.

Deck Movement Is Blocked.

The freight is handled by railway employees, according to correspondence received here, up to the time it leaves the control of the railway men. When it comes to the point where teamsters' hauling is needed, it cannot be handled. This is thought by some to indicate that the teamsters' union is joining with the longshoremen in the strike. At any rate, it appears that nearly all the freight that gets to steamers bound for Honolulu is that which is loaded by lighters into steamers in the harbor, and largely from the Oakland side.

There are more than two hundred carloads of goods for Hawaii, which cannot be loaded into steamers, piled up at the western terminals of the transcontinental railroads.

Relief At Los Angeles.

One solution of the difficulty, as far as it affects these islands, which has been suggested, is establishment of a steamship service with Los Angeles, which, as a rather strong non-union town, might be expected to allow shipments to get through. A tying up of freight shipments for several months, which might easily happen if the San Francisco-Seattle-Portland strike is fought to a finish, will result in some serious shortages here, say local merchants, and also heavy financial losses.

MOTOR SHIPS TO RUN FROM SAN FRANCISCO

Within ten months two steamship companies will be running five semi-diesel type motor ships out of San Francisco to the Orient. Later two more ships will be added to the line.

Letters of incorporation have been filed in California by the two steamship companies, the Ocean Transport Company, capitalized at $250,000; the China-American Motor Ship Company, capitalized at $1,000,000. Melbourne Crisp, Lester McDonald, both of San Francisco, and Louis A. Hewitt of Oakland, are the incorporators of the China-American Company.

The first of the motor ships for this company will be constructed in Oakland, according to Crisp. Bids will be asked for the others. If the offers are too high the company plans to equip its own yards and build the ships. The ships will be 260 feet long, double-deckers and wooden and of 4000 ton cargo capacity. They will run to Vladivostok and to Chinese and other Oriental ports. Hewitt is to be office manager for the company.

The incorporators of the Ocean Transport Company are R. H. Swayne of Alameda, Paul I. Fagan of San Francisco, John Butchfield of Menlo Park, E. R. de Golia of Oakland and John F. Craig of Long Beach. Swayne said the start of construction of its new ship had already been announced at Grays Harbor and they will be ready for service in November and December. They are designed for offshore trade with a capacity of 2,000,000 feet of lumber or 4000 tons of cargo.

AUSTRALIA TAKES CONTROL OF SHIPS

All British Vessels In Colonial Ports Are Impressed To Carry Grain

So great is the wheat crop of Australia for this year and so urgent is the need that the major portion of it be shipped to Great Britain and France at once that the Australian government has taken advantage of the "war precautions act" and is impressing all British ships into service to carry wheat.

Under War Act.

The following cablegram was received at San Francisco a few days ago by Niel Nielsen, trade commissioner to the United States from Australia:

"Federal government has assumed control of all British shipping in Australian ports under war precaution act."

The Australian government has also placed an embargo on the export of coal so that coal-carrying ships may be used in the grain service, San Francisco advisers say. The total wheat yield for New South Wales for the last year is reported as 62,050,000 bushels, as compared with the next highest harvest of 38,000,000 bushels in 1914.

It has been understood in Honolulu months ago that the Australian government was forcing British vessels to take grain, and refusing permits to load coal at Newcastle to all non-British vessels in condition to take grain, a policy which resulted in the American bark Star of Holland, from Chile for Honolulu Monday, with nitrate, to cross the Pacific from Australia to Chile in ballast, as she was not permitted to take coal. The cablegram merely may be a formal confirmation of this policy, or may mean it has become more rigid.

Work To Begin On Baldwin Memorial

Architect Dickey Arrives To Start Construction On Church At Paia, Maui

Further interesting details concerning the Baldwin Memorial church, to be built at Paia, Maui, by the children of the late H. P. Baldwin were brought to the city by C. W. Dickey, the Oakland architect, who arrived by the steamer Manoa Tuesday evening to institute active construction work on the edifice.

With him came Harold White, an architect associated with the famous Honolulu man, who will make his residence in Maui, personally superintending the job. The two will go to the Valley Island tomorrow, Mr. Dickey returning to Honolulu in a few days and going back to the Coast two weeks hence.

The Baldwin Memorial church, though not to be the largest in the islands, will be beyond question one of the finest, as a whole and in detail. Its probable cost is not disclosed; it is not certain, in fact, that the heirs who are building it know definitely the figure. They are spending no expense, and intend it to be a permanent structure that will need little or no repair for generations.

Just one item may give an idea of the perfection sought in its appointments and beauty. Every bit of wood employed in the interior will be oak; the pews, railings, pulpit and finishing round the pipe organ will be of oak. The organ, by the way, is to be constructed in the East on a special design prepared by Mr. Dickey. Its pipes will be a dull gold in color, and the instrument is to be as modern as genius can make it.

As stated last week, the edifice will be surfaced with hewn-covered stone, found in the immediate vicinity. But the architect adds to this information by stating that the rock will be set against a solid wall of reinforced concrete and steel, which will be the real building material used. The church will be fireproof throughout.

It will seat three hundred and fifty persons in the main auditorium, a hundred more in the entrance lobby and Sunday school room, and forty-five in the choir.

The church, designed after the modern English village church Gothic style, will set upon a terrace bordered by a low stone wall. On three faces of its low, broad tower a big clock with skeleton dial will mark time.

POLICEMAN REPRIMANDED IN CASE OF BOOZE VENDOR

Judge Monsarrat, in the police court yesterday morning, resented the action by a police officer when, it was alleged, he pleaded on behalf of a vendor of Cruz at Waterfront to kindly sell him two bottles of beer, and when Cruz, filled with sympathy for the officer, thinking that he was suffering from the want of beer, gave him the two bottles of the very communion, whereupon the cheerful giver was arrested and charged with illicit sale of liquor.

Cruz received a suspended sentence. "I do not doubt but that Cruz sold liquor, but the police method of securing evidence against the vendor was not preferable," said Judge Monsarrat before passing sentence upon Cruz.

HAWAII INVESTORS IN BIG MELON CUT

Pacific Gas and Electric Company Shows Large Profits For 1915-16 Period

The tenth annual report of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company of San Francisco, stock and bonds of which are owned by Hawaiian investors, has been released by the directors.

The 1915 net earnings of the company from operation were $7,944,708.43 and from miscellaneous income $113,758.87. After paying bond and other interest, amounting to $3,985,410.52; bond and note discount and expense, $100,410.43, the balance to surplus was $4,242,766.35, an increase of $1,567,100.34 over 1914.

Large Sum Distributed After paying six per cent dividends on the two issues of prepared stock, $1,330,073.00, that had been reinvested in permanent improvements was disbursed to the shareholders as a common stock dividend.

The directors state that the increase of $105,890 in current assets, and the decrease of $1,580,315 in current liabilities, resulted in a net betterment of $1,735,207 in the position of the company's current finances during the past year. To the net working capital of $4,889,782 at December 31, 1915, computed on above basis, may properly be added $2,900,000 par value of general and refunding five per cent bonds issued against new construction and authorized by the railroad commission, all of which are in the company's treasury except $75,000 pledged under surety bonds in connection with rate litigation. This gives total working assets of about seven and one-half million dollars against which there is a contingent liability of $1,214,283.50 representing revenues involved in pending rate litigation.

Plant and Properties The plants and properties of the company are valued at $129,281,360. The funded debt is $76,172,800, a decrease of $3,065,500 during the year. Capital stock common and preferred, current liabilities, bonds, reserves and surplus foot up a total of $145,471,651.85.

The number of consumers of gas, electricity, water and steam increased 24,440 during 1915, the total standing at 403,545 December 31. Hawaiian investors are represented on the directorate by John H. McCandless.

MANOA BOND SUIT FRIENDLY ACTION

Bankers Will Seek To Settle Legal Status of All Improvement District Securities

The expected suit, brought by banking interests, against the bond issue of the Manoa improvement district, is not a fight against the bond issue, according to Deputy City Attorney Crispy, but is essentially a friendly suit to settle, in the supreme court, the legal status of the proposed bonds.

"I do not know what are the legal points that may be raised in the attack which we understand is being made on the bonds," said Crispy, yesterday, "but I think that the intention is to get a supreme court decision which will establish the status not only of these bonds, but of other bonds which may be issued by improvement districts."

"Manoa district is a unit in banking bond proposition, and is, I believe, prepared to put up the money to buy the bonds. The people there want the proposition put through and will see that it is done, and I have been informed that there is Coast capital that might be drawn upon to buy the bonds if necessary. I understand that the action which is apparently about to be brought to oppose the issue of the bonds is really a friendly suit, to get the supreme court decision on questions that might arise."

One of the propositions that will be settled by the suit, is that of the legal status of all improvement district bonds here, as banking security. It is expected that the suit will be filed in the supreme court, on an agreed submission of facts, by the city and the firm of Frear, Anderson, Prosser & Marx.

TWO PLANTATIONS PAY OUT $230,000

Olaa Distributes Its First Dividend of Twenty Cents Share, Totalling $50,000

Two plantations disbursed $230,000 in dividends yesterday. Olaa paid twenty cents a share, or $50,000, and Waiuku six dollars, amounting to $180,000.

The stock market was as near dead as it could be. Offerings were abundant with practically no takers. Only nine small trades totalling 500 shares in all reported. Price quotations were lower all along the line.

PLUNDER-HUNTERS OF DEMOCRACY GET BUSY WITH PLANS

Pacheco, Wilson and Others Prepare To Plow Again Into Field of Patronage

TELL OF CONFERENCE WITH THE PRESIDENT

Judge Stuart, Spokesman For Pauahi Street, Tells of Governor's Political 'Treachery'

With the return from St. Louis and Washington of the three prominent figures in the McCandless faction of the Democratic party, a general meeting of members of that political faction is expected to be held the day of next week, to plow into the field of patronage again and to bond themselves closer together in the siege against Governor Pinkham.

M. C. Pacheco and John H. Wilson have returned fresh from conferences with President Wilson, Attorney-General Gregory and other members of the administration cabinet, and word passed swiftly among Democrats yesterday that they returned with words of cheer for Pauahi street.

Pacheco spoke of the conference with President Wilson yesterday but did not wish to say exactly what took place at this conference, except that it was about Hawaiian political and industrial affairs and about Governor Pinkham. Governor Pinkham attacked.

L. J. McCandless, Judge Stuart, John H. Wilson and Pacheco were present at the meeting with the President, and they did almost all the talking, the chief executive listening or interrupting with an occasional question.

They attacked Governor Pinkham. Pacheco frankly admitted that he did not know what effect this attack had on President Wilson. The President said nothing to give them a clue. He simply listened and when the half hour was up bid them adieu. A part of their attack on Governor Pinkham was based on his land policies, which they stigmatized as pernicious, disloyal to Democratic pledges and obnoxious and disastrous to homesteaders.

They swung into the Governor on the charge that he was faithless to the party, that he was the fountain of all the dissensions, disruptions and disintegrations of Democracy here, and so long as he was in office there could be no unity or harmony in the party. As evidence of his weakness as a party leader, they pointed to the fact that he did not have a single delegate in the St. Louis convention.

And then they switched to his distribution of local patronage and charged him with keeping Republicans in office while Pauahi street hungers. Stuart does most talking. Judge Stuart did most of the talking. Mr. McCandless taking second place. This interview occurred of course before Judge Stuart left his now-famous letter to the White House. Pacheco and Wilson had left Washington before the letter attacking Attorney-General Gregory, Secretary of Interior Lane and Governor Pinkham, was written.

The matter of patronage which will come before the Democrats concerns three places. One is the judgeship to be left vacant as soon as Judge Stuart's resignation is in, which will be August 1, according to the jurist's letter to the President. Another is Judge Dickey's place in the circuit court in Kauai. His commission expires this month; and the third is the postmaster's place.

This latter position is what Pacheco is after, and has been after since the advent of the Democratic party in power, but it was given to William F. Young, Mr. Young left Honolulu some time ago on account of his wife's health and is hardly believed he will return, though he has not resigned.

There are ten applications for his place, conditioned upon his retiring, and Pacheco is one of the ten. "My candidacy for the postmaster's place is predicated on Mr. Young resigning. Mr. Young has made good here both in his position and with the party, and I hope he returns," said Pacheco yesterday.

Pacheco says he is sure Judge Dickey's successor will be appointed very soon after the jurist's term is up and that the place will go to a Democrat.

Several names are mentioned as possible successors, Leslie P. Scott, formerly deputy attorney-general; G. G. Correa and W. H. Heen, deputy attorney-general, notably. And possibly one of these lawyers will be appointed to take Judge Stuart's place.

One of the leading Democrats who has talked over the political situation with his brother, Andrew, is a goodly voyage," said yesterday that the outcome of their conference in Washington will be felt before long.

"Governor Pinkham is a marked man," he said. "It is only a matter of time before he goes out. The delegates stirred up a great many of the senators against him, and their opposition is enough to break through Lane's defense."

NEW YORK, July 12.—The Cleveland Americans are fast overtaking the Yankees in the lead of the American League as the result of their taking a double header from New York here today. Only two games now separate the first two teams in the standing. Boston also continues to climb, the Red Sox having taken two from Chicago this afternoon. The result of this double drops the White Sox nearly to Detroit's level in the percentage column. This will probably break up for some time the tie between Cleveland, Boston, and Chicago.

The Phillies are strengthening their claim on second honors in the National League with a four game lead on the Braves, former runner-up team. Although they were unable to play their scheduled game with St. Louis today, the Superbas still have a comfortable lead on the Philadelphia crew. The Giants are beginning to make themselves heard in the National League standing and are now occupying fourth place with a good chance of being one of the strongest bidders for the lead before the end of the season.

WESTERNERS LOOK FOR TENNIS TITLE

(By The Associated Press.)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—The East is likely to be hard put to it this season to defend its tennis laurels, because present indications are that at least a dozen of the best California players will invade the Atlantic seaboard to participate in the more important tournaments.

Seven of these are likely to be returned at the end of the year as among the ranking ten players of the country, according to the belief that prevails here in tennis circles. The list is as follows: William Johnston, national champion and rated No. 1; Maurice McLoughlin, former national champion and rated No. 3; Charles J. Griffin, doubles champion with Johnston and rated No. 7; Lindley Murray, rated No. 4 in 1914; Willis Davis, the University of California star, who already is playing a sensational game in the East; Ward Dawson, who is mentioned as the likely partner of McLoughlin in the doubles to succeed Thos. Bundy; Roland Robertson, the phenomenal San Francisco youngster, who has decided to go after "big game" and acquire experience; Harold Throckmorton, the present national intercollegiate champion; Eugene Warren, Edward McCormick and Van Dyck Johns.

Followers of tennis here maintain that no State in the Union can present such a formidable array of court talent, and it is generally expected that, with the exception of a few players such as Williams, Church and Washington, the eastern players will have to be at their best to place on the honor roll.

Davis' Work Exceptional. Particular interest attaches to the work of Davis, whose triumphant career thus far in the East has enthused his friends to such an extent that, barring an unlooked-for reversal of form, they expect him to figure as an important factor in the competition for first honor.

McLoughlin has as yet made no definite announcement of his plans with regard to a doubles partner, but the fact that Dawson has been playing with him this season leads those who are close to the former champion to believe there is a probability that court with McLoughlin in the big tournaments. They played together in several recent tournaments and are familiar with each other's games.

Maria Catherine Gallant's suit for divorce from Michael Gallant was tried before Judge Whittier yesterday morning. The divorce was granted on the ground of non-support.

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—It took Los Angeles eleven innings to defeat Vernon in their second game of the week in Los Angeles yesterday. This is the second time the Angels have beaten the league leaders this week both scores being close. At the end of the nine innings yesterday afternoon the Tigers and Angels were tied with four runs each and it was not until the closer of the second extra frame that the Los Angeles crew brought in the fifth and winning run of the game. The match was close throughout but there was enough action to make it interesting for the record crowd.

Salt Lake was again treated to a run avalanche when the Seals crossed the Bees' plate for fifteen runs. The fans at the Mormon City are still given the greatest amount of action for their money, this being the tenth time that the Salt Lake game has shown the high score of the day. The Bees made the circuit of the bases three times themselves.

Oakland disappointed the home fans once more yesterday by losing its tenth consecutive game, this last match having gone to the visiting Beavers by the score of 5 to 2. The Oaks have been playing hard luck baseball and from the way things look now they have but little hope of pulling themselves out of the slough before the end of the Pacific Coast season.

The results of the game yesterday place Los Angeles closer behind the Vernon nine, the league leaders are now but eight games ahead of the Angels. Although San Francisco and Portland each won its match, Portland took the lead of one point in the percentage column, placing the Seals fourth in standing.

Big Swimming Championships To Be Held Here On Labor Day Are Official
